Taking Charge of Change

Cooperative Dynamics hosted by CCNC and North Carolina's Electric Cooperatives

Cooperative Dynamics on November 30th was a program jam packed with members from across our state! We discussed some well-known brands that are actually cooperatives as well as the importance of these national brands in our economy. Learning about the governance, roles and economics of cooperatives is critical for our employees to continue our cooperative movement!

Happy holidays to you and your families!

What a year we have had here at the Cooperative Council! We have served all our members with education, networking and connecting across the state! With a fantastic Annual Meeting 2016 in Winston Salem, to a sold out Cooperative Leadership Camp followed by our exciting Regional Series; Co-op 101 and lastly our Cooperative Dynamics.

We have added some fantastic new partnerships and programs including our Cabot Creamery Cooperative Tour and our Scouting Patch Program!

We had an enthusiastic group join us for Cooperative Dynamics and the session was full of information about local and national cooperatives. We heard from guest speaker Bob Cohan about the economics and structure of cooperatives as well as the governance and leadership.

Looking forward into the New Year, we have another exciting year planned out starting in Raleigh with our Annual Meeting which is March 21st-22nd. We have planned key programs including a Legislative Breakfast with Cooperative Story Telling and a generational panel. Please join us for the two day event in Raleigh to connect, educate and promote cooperatives!

We had several national Co-op supporters that sent over samples for our participants to learn about Co-ops! Cooperative Dynamics brings together all industries of all our members to learn about co-ops!

CCNC presented as part of the Carolina's Credit Union Principles and Philosophy Conference. Apove, Chris Temple of LGFCU, discusses how Credit Unions (also Co-ops) have evolved with the times.

Hosting the Cooperative Patch Program has been such a great way to educate our youth about how Cooperatives do business! From farm to table, to utilities to financial, we cover all our members with this program!
